

YOUR COMPLIANCE TEAM

Building your business the right way is vital, and as one of your corporate partners, we are here to help you. This brochure contains important principles you must follow when sharing information about Isagenix products, the income opportunity, or weight loss results. Keep this brochure handy; it's an important guide you will use often.

PRODUCT CLAIMS

When you talk about Isagenix products and their impact on your health, follow the principles outlined below.

- Tell the Truth.
Make sure any claims you make about Isagenix products are true, and remember to give additional information when necessary to avoid being misleading.
- Do Not Make Disease Claims.
Even if they may be true, do not make disease or medical claims. Isagenix products do not diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease or medical condition.
- Do Not Guarantee Results.
Everyone is different, and individual results vary. Avoid giving someone the impression that he or she will achieve the same results as anyone else from using our products.
- Use Isagenix Resources.
Only use Isagenix-approved claims. The best sources for information on any product are the product label, the product information sheet, the product guide, and any official Isagenix-marketing materials. Avoid making claims based on third-party sources unless those sources have been expressly approved by Isagenix.
- Avoid Competitor Comparisons.
Focus on the positive benefits from using Isagenix products rather than attempting to denigrate competitors or their products through comparisons.

WEIGHT LOSS CLAIMS

When you share a story about weight loss or other physical transformation, follow the principles outlined below.

- Tell the Truth.
When sharing a story, all claims should be true and put in the proper context. For example, implying that your results were solely due to the use of Isagenix products without disclosing the effect of exercise and a change in diet would likely be misleading.
- Set Reasonable Expectations.
It takes hard work, determination, proper nutrition, and exercise to transform your body. Everyone is different and will not experience the same results using Isagenix products, so do not guarantee results or set unreasonable expectations.
- Refrain From Using Time Frames.
Avoid claiming a specific amount of weight loss during a specific time period, especially when it suggests a substantial amount of weight loss in a short time period.
- Use Disclaimers as Appropriate.
When making a weight loss claim, use the standard weight loss disclaimer Isagenix provides. This disclaimer is based on a clinical study and helps provide the proper context for weight loss claims.
- Use “Before” and “After” Photos Carefully.
These photos can be persuasive but may also be misleading if not put in the proper context. Always use the weight loss disclaimer when sharing “before” and “after” photos.

INCOME CLAIMS

When you talk about the potential to earn income with Isagenix, including relying on any lifestyle claims, follow the principles outlined below.

- Tell the Truth.
Make sure any claims you make about your Isagenix income are true, and put in the proper context. For example, displaying a check without disclosing that it's based on a one-time bonus would likely be misleading because it implies recurring income.
- Set Reasonable Expectations.
It takes hard work and determination to build a business. Do not guarantee results because not everyone will have the same level of success.
- Use the Earnings Disclosure Statement.
Whenever you discuss the Isagenix Compensation Plan or refer to income or earnings from Isagenix, you must also provide the earnings disclosure information found at IsagenixEarnings.com. This information describes the number of Associates achieving certain levels of income within stated time periods and helps prospective new Associates better understand their earning potential.
- Treat Lifestyle Claims No Differently.
Follow the same principles whenever making a lifestyle claim. Lifestyle claims include any display of or reference to items associated with a luxurious lifestyle, like photos or descriptions of vacations, cars, or jewelry, and claims relating to early retirement.
